

On Tour with Diana Ross 2005

(Part One)

Ease on down the road

Just got back from touring with Miss Ross through Germany and Switzerland. I'm still moved and what can I say:

Miss Ross is still the Boss...

I can't tell you every detail, but the short version will be long enough...

Each concert took around 90 minutes. The most beautiful venue was in Zuerich.

She was always in a good mood and her voice was excellent. She looked gorgeous.

I have waited so long for this tour and finally on Monday 11th July, I started to go to Bonn. I wanted to meet my friend Andreas there. We met each other in front of the venue at 11.00 am. With him were Peter and Michael.

We waited from this time on in front of the entrance to be the first when they will open. So we waited about 7 hours in the sun... But it was worth. We stood in the front row right in the middle of the stage. We were wearing all the same t-shirts (Miss Ross on front and www.dianaross.de on back). There was a support act before her.

She started around 8.15 pm with the intro of "Take me higher" and came out to "I'm coming out". We danced a lot and had so much fun. She looked and danced with us from the stage. We had some banners for her like: "My world is empty without you" and of course "We love you". She laughed when she saw the banners. The whole concert was brilliant. The crowd was very good. They sang and danced. The concert took 90 minutes. We have met a lot of nice people there.

After the concert we talked with Fred White from the band and he told us, that they are going to Berlin with the bus.

I stayed the night in Bonn and went on the next day to Cologne, to take the plane to Berlin. Andreas drove home and came also by plane to Berlin. So we met in the Hotel. We went to the venue and talked to Fred again. He's very nice and friendly. At 5.30 Miss Ross arrived in a Mercedes limousine, but she was driven in the venue. The closed doors immediately. We didn't get the chance for a photo or signing anything. The show started at 8.00 p.m.

We had for nearly all concerts front row tickets (1.Row).

She recognized us in the audience and when she sang "Upside down", she took 2 guys to the stage to dance with her.
